

PCIS POSVision

A .NET Browser Point of Sale System for Personal Lines

POSVision™ is a .NET browser based personal lines point of sale system. This product handles personal lines including automobile, homeowners and umbrella and is in production today.

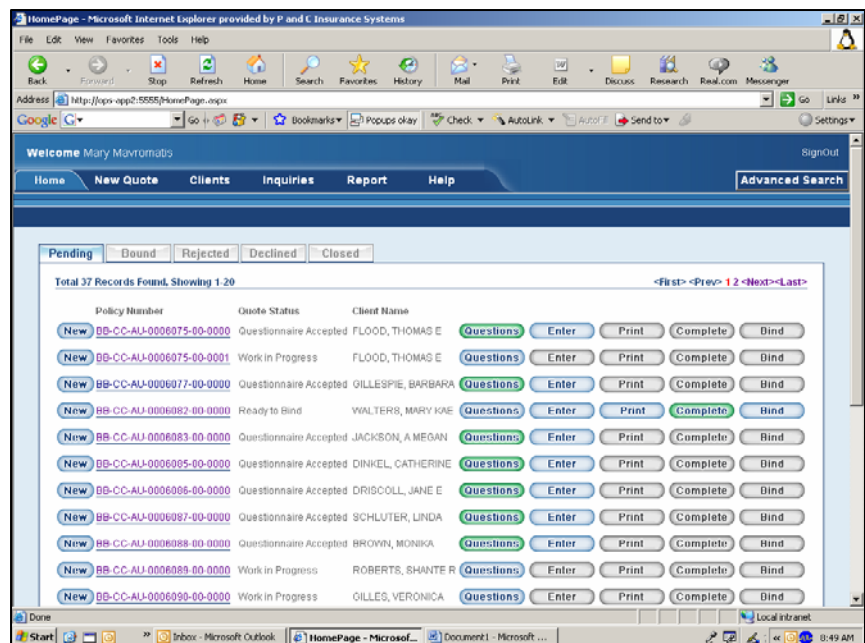

This is a true web-based rating and quotation system which is tightly integrated to PCIS' CarrierVision™ policy management system. Now, remote underwriting locations are managed as easily as if they were in the home office.

The system utilizes the most recent advances in web development, and provides secure, real-time data to all users of the system. Now there's no need to wait for over-night data replication, all users have access to quote and coverage documents, policy information, and reports at their finger tips.

POSVision is a must for carriers that manage large underwriting territories, or even small carriers that would like to integrate segments of their system with their web sites.

The result is minimal data entry and a prescreened submission for the underwriting staff. The outcome of this process is exponential gains in efficiency and reduced clerical errors for the underwriting process.

POSVision leverages the power and architecture of the PCIS' CarrierVision™ carrier system to provide web-based rating for personal lines, real-time agency access to quote documents, and up to date agency production reports. The agency may even be extended binding authority based on the carrier's underwriting business rules.

PCIS' POSVision is an attractive addition to any carrier's underwriting workflow. You will immediately notice a measurable change in underwriting efficiency.

P&C Insurance Systems provides innovative, dependable software that supports real-world business requirements of the property and casualty industry. A recognized leader in the market, PCIS systems are scalable to meet the needs of carriers, managing general agents (MGA), and third-party administrators (TPA).
